Client Interview

Elliot: So what problems have you experienced in your small business

Client: Well there are a few. The biggest is that it is difficult to keep track of what plants need to be harvested at what times. I keep a notebook of all the things I need to plant and harvest but I lose that notebook all the time. Now-a-days, I just guess when I need to harvest which is not ideal.

Elliot: Maybe a feature where you can record the times when you need to harvest the plants?

Client: Yes. That would be very helpful.

Elliot: What other problems do you have with your business?

Client: Another issue is figuring out which crops I have planted. I use those tags they often include in the box but whenever I plant those tags next to the crops, they often either get blown away by the wind or just get lost maybe because of animals. I have to record what crops I planted on a grid pattern on that same notebook but like I said before, that notebook is often lost. It would be helpful if you can include some features that include where each plant is planted in the garden.

Elliot: Do you ever change the size of your garden?

Client: No, it's always been a square garden that never really has changed in size.

Elliot: Ok so I can make the online representation of the garden constant?

Client: Yes.

Elliot: Alright anything else?

Client: Maybe a feature that I can use to manage what crops I have bought and sold.

Elliot: A feature with what crops you have bought but not planted yet?

Client: Yes but I was also thinking about a balance feature that can display how much money I have spent and made selling and buying crops.

Elliot: All right. Sounds good, I will begin working on that.
